I-LAND'S STIMULUS

The past year or so has brought many people tighter budgets. I-Land understood how difficult things can be and rose up to the challenge of providing Wireless services to more people for less cost than any other provider. We not only lowered our wireless services across the board, but we also increased the speed of each connection along with lower pricing. I-Land is a full service provider; we stick with our customers after the sale, and even in hard times.

MISSOURI BROADBAND NOW

I-Land Internet Services has been a part of the Missouri Broadband Now project for the past two years. It is a state project founded by Governor Jay Nixon, in an effort to find ways to get more rural Americans online with high-speed Internet. Rick Lashley, I-Land's General Manager, has spent the past year visiting with rural Americans as well as rural community managers in an effort to find ways to help provide high-speed Internet to the smallest of townships. Being a member of two different Regional Technology Planning Teams (RTPT) serving in two different regions of the state, we have listened and are now in the planning stage of finding ways to deliver high-speed Internet to as many rural Americans as possible.

I-Land Internet Services is the exclusive wireless broadband provider for the Missouri State Fair.

Proud supporter of the Liberty Arts Center, United Way, Sedalia Rotary, Sedalia Downtown Development Inc. and the Pettis County Community Partnership.
